Comment It is not new to Indonesia. We have a religious "local wisdom" in Bali to commemorate just "a silent day" once a year. It is called the "Hari Raya Nyepi" (Silent Great Day) which will happen this year on 26 March 2009. It is also already declared by the Government as a "National Great Day" to be commemorated as a Public Holiday. Please come to Bali on 25 March 2009 one day before the D-day and stay for about two-three days. You will feel the difference. It is a real 24 hours silent day people should consider to be adapted world wide.

Comment There's an ongoing debate whether or not global warming is true. No matter how, "now" might be the best time for us to realize that we have been harming our environment and it's time to take action before it's too late. The idea of "World Silent Day" is to show that it is possible to take action and switching off can make a difference upon climate change.

On that day I turn off electricity saving 8 am to 12 noon. Since this is the first time I'm doing such thing I choose a different time set. I promised myself to do this as a routine by doing this one day every month. I will save some cost as well. Also, I'm currently trying to adopt the concept of recycling unto my household.

wauuuu,,,hari silent day...
yang ak lakukan selama menyepi adalah,, 1.tdk nonton tv seharian
2tdk main hape dari jam 7pagi sampai 7 malam
3 tdk hidupin elektronik seharian
4 mematikan lampi dr jam 6 pagi sampai 6 pagi keesokanny.

hal itu saya lakukan pada tanggal 26 march yang mana bertepatan dengan hari raya nyepi

As a Balinese, I've experienced the benefits of having one day of silence. Things seems to heal themselves as the universe (the environment - bhuana agung and the human body - bhuana alit) are 'shut down'.
